Aditya, who played a key role in scaling EMotorad to 18 countries and raising a Series B round, and Mikhail, who led Harbor 365 to a profitable $10 million ARR, are bringing their marketing and execution know-how to Luxora. While most competitors target regions like Africa, Bangladesh, and the GCC, Luxora's unique approach focuses on the Western medical tourism market, combining surgery with a vacation experience.

Their innovative model offers Vacation + Surgery, enabling patients to enjoy a luxury travel experience while receiving world-class medical care. This all-inclusive experience is catered to Western patients from countries like the USA, UK, and Australia, looking for an affordable alternative to expensive local healthcare.

Luxora Experiences is building a digital-first platform offering transparent pricing, full support, and curated travel experiences. Partnerships with top JCI and NABH-accredited hospitals and luxury travel providers are already underway. With India's medical value travel industry projected to grow significantly, Luxora aims to lead the charge by providing tailored experiences for procedures like cosmetic surgery, cardiac care, orthopedics, and more.

At the official launch of Luxora, the company made significant strides in establishing partnerships with some of the most reputable hospital chains worldwide.
